About the Seminar

The value of Education is not in providing more information but training human to think beyond what is taught through text books. – Albert Einstein.

There is a deep meaning to the word, "education". It's the paramount responsibility of a teacher to ensure that every child receives Quality Education. The prime aspiration of education is for self-realization. It is therefore imperative for teachers to innovate in making classroom learning meaningful.

This seminar's objective is to disseminate such new innovative practices to the teaching fraternity to make them learn and use it in their classroom.
